Promote Externally-Accredited and Nationally-Ranked Programs. Programs that have achieved national rankings and/or external accreditations are the University’s front-runners, attracting students to Detroit Mercy to study in these and other fields. Capitalizing on these successes will strengthen enrollment throughout the entire institution. One area of focus for the University’s marketing efforts should include programs whose national rankings and accreditation convey excellence.

Tactics

Tactic 2.3.2.1 Establish and implement a plan to promote externally-accredited programs.

Tactic 2.3.2.2 Establish and implement a plan to promote nationally-ranked programs.

Action Plan 2.3.3 Develop a Strategy for Graduate Recruiting - Develop a comprehensive and cohesive strategy for recruiting graduate students.

Tactic 2.3.3.1 Name a central admissions staff member dedicated exclusively to providing proactive recruiting support to all McNichols graduate programs.

Tactic 2.3.3.2 Form a University-wide task force to study all practices for recruiting graduate students through developing detailed and coordinated tactics.

Tactic 2.3.3.3 To maximize return on the investment in finding potential graduate students, place special emphasis on graduate programs that have natural target audiences (career groups) where there is a clear benefit as a non-traditional student to complete a master’s degree.

Action Plan 2.3.4 Invest in Regional Recruiting - Given the competitive landscape in a state with a stagnant population, it is essential that this plan include an equally comprehensive and coordinated strategy for recruiting outside of southeast Michigan. These plans must take into account the larger context of shifting demographics and the expected decline in potential traditional student population in the future.

Tactics

Tactic 2.3.4.1 Establish a process for data-driven analysis in order to prioritize a limited number of target markets outside of the Detroit metro area to focus on for travel, press engagement, marketing, and recruiting efforts, as well as specific leading and/or unique academic programs that are more likely to attract students from outside our region.

Action Plan 2.3.5 Improve Website and Social Media with a Recruiting Focus - Identify and provide resources for appropriate technology needs that impact marketing and recruiting.

Tactic 2.3.5.1 Rebuild the website for more user-friendly navigation. Separate the website into public and private sections. Emphasize the use of personal narratives and compelling video towards prospective students (both on the website and through robust social media exposure).
